

Human Capital Development

November 11 - 21, 2025

Course Coordinator: Ritsuko Nakayama

<Contents>

This course is designed for managers in human resources departments. The primary objective is for participants to learn about Human Capital Development (HCD) as a strategic approach to drive an organization's sustainable growth and create corporate value. The course emphasizes viewing talent as the organization's most critical asset ("capital") and focuses on strategies to maximize its potential. Participants will study the importance of HCD through relevant case studies. A further goal is to develop the participants' leadership skills to enable them to promote the competency development of their companies' employees effectively.
